

April 11th 1954

- He writes a letter where he talks about solitude in prison. "You cannot imagine how much energy this solitude consumes. Sometimes I am exhausted. At those times is when one gets tired of everything, there is no refuge from tedium. Sensitivity becomes dull and the days pass in lethargy". He also reflects his personality and sense of life in the letter: "... I have no personal ambitions; all my motives are moral, a sense of honor, a sense of dignity, a sense of duty."

Sunday, April 11, 1954

---

Source URL: <http://www.comandanteenjefe.com/en/cronologia/april-11th-1954?page=0%2C1%2C0%2C0%2C0%2C0%2C0%2C0%2C2>