

October 15, 2008

Published on Fidel soldado de las ideas (<http://www.comandanteenjefe.com>)

---

---

“The European capitalist countries, saturated of productive capacity and commodities, are desperately in need of markets to avoid blue-collar and services workers lay-offs, to prevent savers from losing their money and peasants from going broke. They are in no position to impose conditions and solutions to the rest of the world. That much has been proclaimed by important leaders from emerging countries and from those that being poor and economically plundered are the victims of unequal exchange.”

Riferimento al testo originale: It's amazing, October 15, 2008

---

Source URL: <http://www.comandanteenjefe.com/it/node/105203?height=600&width=600>